About the Seminar

Gandhi's realized that women were intellectually, mentally and spiritually equal to make and can participate in all the activities. He felt that women should be educated to make them independent and confident. They should be trained in various skills for their financial independence and support to their families. Though we live in 21st century, women backwardness still continues. Women face many atrocities right from her birth to death, which varies from regions and class. Some widespread issues are gender discrimination, disparity in education, child marriage. Sale responsibility, economic inequality, dowry, domestic violence, lopsided employment opportunities, scanty material health, widow status, property rights be short of respect and honour killing. Mahatma Gandhi had expressed his views on varies issues like equality of genders, women's honour, education, child marriage and dowry system. Just as to mahatma's words 'social reforms are required to uplift the perception of Indian women. It is good to swim in the water of tradition, but to sink in them is a suicide". Gandhi reveals s his patriarchal basis. "I am quit of opinion the children of mixed marriages should be taught in the mal parent's religion. Empowering means facilitating people notably women to get hold and possess supremacy resources in order for them to make decisions on their own or deny the decisions made by others which impair them directly or indirectly. Fear is the first and foremost thought that pulls us from stepping up. In order to overcome that we should be able to differentiate. Women under his ages took a miles to step towards. Reestablishing their identity in the society. Gandhi & inspiring ideologies boosted their morale and helped them to rediscover their self-esteem. Not only there was a general awakening among the women, but under Gandhi & leadership they entered into the national, mainstream, taking parts in the national movements. Gandhi & reformist spirit seasoned the role that he played in uplifting the status of women in India. With the emergence of Gandhi, a new conception of women gradually gained currency. For Gandhi women were not mere toys in the hands of men, neither their competitors. Men and women are essentially endowed with the same spirit and therefore have similar problems. According to Gandhi, education for women was the need of the time that would ensure their moral development and make them capable of occupying the same platform as that of men. When women given right education at right time. She can overcome the first hindrance in her life and she possesses self-confidence, patience and tolerance. Once a women realizes her strength. She breaks all the barriers and makes strategic life choices at all the circumstances for the betterment of her society, family and herself. Empowering women is the most essential to have bright future in family, country and the world, quoting to an African. Proverb "if you educate a man, you educate in individual but if you educate a women you educate a nation" Women empowerment is the utmost requirement of the betterment of this world.
